
Each transition requires its own evidence; no gate inherits authority from the previous one.